

Jelena Pjesivac-Grbovic is a senior software engineer in Systems Infrastructure at Google, focusing on distributed data processing frameworks. She received PhD from the University of Tennessee, Knoxville under supervision of Dr. Jack J. Dongarra. Prior to joining Google she actively contributed to the implementation and optimizations of the MPI collective operations in OpenMPI and FT-MPI projects.